LOUISVILLE LIVE STOCK EXCHANGE SALES JUNE 2.

Dear Sir:

The first of the sales to be conducted by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange in its efforts to promote better bred livestock will be held within the next twelve days (June 2). On the success of this sale of 300 pure bred bulls largely depends the hope for future improved conditions in the livestock situation in Kentucky. If the sale proves as popular, as there is every indication it will be, the first step upward in the purebred livestock movement is taken and succeeding steps forward will be easier.

It is timely to reiterate the statement that the Exchange will not derive one cent's profit from the sale; that the movement originated with the United States Department of Agriculture and is supported by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, the Kentucky Pure Bred Livestock Association and all the livestock interests of the State; that bankers and business men in the farming districts are giving their aid and that the campaign is the greatest ever undertaken in the history of the State for the benefit of the livestock grower.

The first kindergarten law in this country was enacted in 1886, in Connecticut and Vermont.

A large part of the educational literature in China relates to agricultural courses.

DEATHS.

McKINLEY

—Green McKinley, 98, oldest man in Adair county and possibly that section, died at the home of Dr. Blair, near Glenfork, Ky. Deceased was the father of eight children, all living, the youngest being 55 years old. He never had a death in his immediate family. Twenty-seven grand children and thirty great-grand children and quite a number of great-grand-grand children survive.

MOSES

—The funeral of Mrs. Jennie Moses, aged about sixty, who died Sunday, about six miles from Lexington, after a short illness of heart trouble, was held Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock at the residence. The interment followed in Battle Grove Cemetery, in Cynthiana. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, and three sons, one of whom, Harry Moses, resides near Paris.

PRATHER

—Miss Alma Dean Prather, aged twenty-one, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Prather, near Plum Lick, this county, after a long illness due to a complication of diseases. Besides her parents she is survived by several brothers and sisters. The funeral was conducted at the family home, with services conducted by Rev. Ward Russell. The interment took place in the Carlisle Cemetery.

JONES

—Joseph Allen Jones, aged sixty-seven, died at his home in Moorefield, Nicholas county, after an illness of but a few days. He was a native of Fleming county, but moved to the Moorefield vicinity three years ago. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, one of whom, Mrs. Thomas Hyatt, resides in Paris, and five sons. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon in the Moorefield Christian church, with services conducted by Rev. S. L. Moore, after which the interment took place in the Carlisle Cemetery.

WEAVER

—Dr. R. D. Weaver, of North Middletown, veteran of the Civil War, died at his home in North Middletown, about 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon of a complication of diseases. Dr. Weaver was about seventy years old.

Dr. Weaver enlisted in the Confederate service when quite a young man, and went through the great struggle as a member of the medical corps with the rank of Surgeon. At the close of the war he returned to Kentucky, locating in North Middletown, where he built up a large practice and where he had formed lasting ties of friendship in the community. He was one of the most prominent citizens of the North Middletown vicinity and one of the best-known members of the medical profession in the State.

Dr. Weaver was a man of fine principles and of the highest character, whose mission to do good wherever he could was always foremost in his thoughts. He was in every sense of the phrase, a thoroughly high-class gentleman, one whose friendships were many and enduring.

He is survived by his widow, who before her marriage was Miss Piper, of Carlisle, a sister of the late Mrs. Charles H. Meng, of North Middletown, and by one daughter, Mrs. Strather Mitchell, of Mt. Sterling.

The funeral will be held at the family home in North Middletown at 2:30 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon, with services conducted by Rev. Frank M. Tindler, pastor of the North Middletown Christian church. The body will be taken to Winchester where the interment will take place in the Winchester Cemetery.

Dr. Weaver had been married forty-seven years, and had resided in North Middletown for thirty-three years. He was born and reared near Winchester.

INTERESTING OLD RELIC TO BE EXHIBITED

One of the most interesting things that will be exhibited at the Lexington Public Library, Monday, at the Exhibition Day exercises of the Bradford Historical Society is a blunderbuss belonging to Mrs. Thomas H. Clay. A hundred years or so ago this old weapon, fashioned of wood and flint, defended the hearthstone of Waldemar Mentelle, a French gentleman, who fled from France during the French revolution and purchased a plantation on the Ohio River, near Gallipolis, Ohio.

Monsieur Mentelle and his lovely wife, with a group of friends arrived and staked their claim, only to be informed that they had been defrauded, that the company to which they had paid their money for a home had no ownership of the land. Peniless, in a strange land, they wended their way to Kentucky, and found a home in the Bluegrass region. It was but a short time until Kentucky hospitality became a reality to them, and they were given a home across from Ashland, where they founded a select school for young women, and taught the cultural arts of music, dancing and French. Mary Mentelle, the daughter of the pioneers, married Thomas Hart Clay, son of Henry Clay, and the blunderbuss thus came into the possession of the late Thos. H. Clay, Jr., Mentelle Park, in Lexington, was named in honor of the Mentelles.

Alabama now has 319 consolidated schools, as compared with 8 five years ago.

OIL COMPANY SUES TO HALT RECEIVER

The Mutual Oil Refining Company, which is suing State Banking Commissioner James P. Lewis on account of his published statements in connection with a revocation of the company's licenses to sell stock not only to the public but also to its stockholders in the Court of Appeals against Circuit Judge Frank M. Tracy, Covington, who appointed a receiver for it in the suit of James Dwyre to recover the $500 he paid for 2,000 shares of stock.

The headquarters of the company, a Delaware corporation, is in Lexington. C. L. Bell, formerly of Paris, is president.

Mr. Dwyre charges that the company received for the 1,783,843 shares it sold, all the way from 10 to 50 cents the share. There were paid in, he said, $216,926.07, and $57,731.86 paid out for commissions. He charges that the company invested $30,000 in the Bourbon Oil & Development Company and the Co-operative Oil & Development Company, both of which Mr. Bell was president, at that time having head offices in Paris, and loaned them $64,182.35. Both of them, he declares, are insolvent. He said Mr. Bell and the company "juggled real estate from him to it and from it to him for the sole purpose of making a profit for the officers."
